Company Research

1. Company Name:

- The 27th Frame

2. Niche / Specialization

- Unlike traditional ad agencies that focus purely on visuals or product features, 27th Frame tells stories that solve problems and evoke emotions, making the audience feel the value of a product, event, or brand.

3. USP / What makes us unique

- Most production companies focus on creating advertisements that simply promote a product or company. Their main goal is to showcase the brand visually. However, 27th Frame Production takes a different approach. Instead of just making advertisements, we focus on understanding the real problem, need, or message of the brand. We work closely with the client to identify what they want to communicate to their audience. Then, we solve that communication challenge through emotional and story-driven filmmaking. Our goal is not just to show the product — but to connect the audience emotionally with the brand through powerful storytelling.

4. Style Differentiation

- Most production companies focus mainly on clean visuals and direct product promotion in their advertisements. Their style is often straightforward and promotional. However, 27th Frame Production follows a cinematic and story-driven style. Our visual approach focuses on emotion, atmosphere, and narrative depth. Instead of simply presenting a product or service, we build a story around the brand's purpose and the audience's emotions.

➢ Our style includes:

- Cinematic visuals inspired by film storytelling
- Emotional narratives that connect with the audience
- Strong character-driven storytelling
- Film-style editing and pacing

5. Format Innovation

- Story-based advertisements that feel like short films rather than direct promotions
- Micro-films for social media designed for platforms such as Instagram and TikTok
- Behind-the-story content that shows the creative process and builds audience engagement

6. Target Audience

- Brands
- Artists / musicians
- Events
- Personal brands
- Startups

7. Emotion Driven Approach

➢ Core Idea:

- Instead of just showing a product, event, or service, your videos tap into real human emotions—making the audience feel the impact, relate to the story, and connect deeply with the brand.

➢ How It Works:

7.1 Identification

- N What is the problem?
- What emotion is tied to this problem?

7.2 Craft the Story Around Emotion

- Build a narrative that makes the audience experience the solution, not just see it.
- Example: Instead of "Our coffee is strong," show a tired student finding energy and confidence after a coffee.

7.3 Use Cinematic Storytelling Techniques

- Visuals, lighting, and pacing create a mood that matches the intended emotion
- Sound design and music amplify the feeling
- Realistic characters or scenarios make it relatable

7.4 Focus on Authenticity

- Avoid overly scripted or generic ads
- Real emotions, real reactions, and genuine experiences resonate more

7.5 Call to Emotional Action

- The story should lead the audience to take action naturally: (Purchase the product, Attend the event, Follow/engage with the artist or personal brand)

- Benefits for Your Clients:

- Stronger audience engagement and shares
- Higher brand recall
- Deeper loyalty and emotional connection
- Unique differentiation from competitors who rely on generic ads

8. Goal

- To help brands, artists, events, personal brands, and startups connect deeply with their audience by creating emotionally-driven, story-focused video content that solves real problems and leaves a lasting impact.
